

INFORMATION FOR DISTRIBUTORS

MARCH 2013

One more time, we would like to extend our warmest wishes for a prosperous and healthy New Year, and many smooth and pleasant experiences with our products.

Unfortunately, I have to start off with a bit of bad news with respect to the size of the photoetched 1/200 Bismarck set for the Trumpeter kit. We have come to the decision to utilize the concept of breaking up the collection into smaller sets. The end result will be set 53081 to be released in April, set 53080 will change in name and price, and set 53081 will change in name. I wish to apologize for any inconvenience this may cause. This is a result of our attempt to maintain and stick to a release schedule for new items. In the case of such an extensive project, as the Bismarck is, this has turned out to be the only reasonable course of action to allow us in achieving the schedule. Please, look over the items slated for February, 2013, and make whatever changes you need to make to your price lists. And thank you for your understanding!

Turning to March items, there are several new items that represent good sales potential. This time, after two months of relative quiet, they involve model kits first and foremost. We are releasing the last of our 1/72nd scale Profipack Bf 110s, the G-4. It is the most ambitious of our 110s that have been released so far. From the Bf 110G-2, this kit contains three new sprues, new fuselage, exhaust parts, weapons and FuG 220 radar antennae. For ease of antennae assembly, which in this scale are very realistic, we have included an etched brass jig that will aid in assembling the system in the correct position in relation to the fuselage.

Another kit covers the F-15C in 1/48th scale, released under the title FIGHTING EAGLE. The kit contains original plastic from Academy, a Brassin seat, exhausts and wheels, photoetched brass, naturally, masks, and Cartograf decals covering four aircraft. As has become the standard practice over the last while, there will be 1500 pieces available. As usual, please be aware that these kits go very quickly, and the probability of a subsequent run is very low. Another new release is the Spitfire Mk.IXc Dual Combo kit in 1/144th scale, which is our SUPER44 line. This is a very small precursor to our 1/48th scale Spitfire which follow the month after, in April.

The last new item among kits is the I-16 Type 24 in 1/48th. It is in a Weekend boxing. It is a re-release, and the kit has no significant changes incorporated over the original release.

As has been our goal over the last while, we are releasing new detail sets in quick succession for our own kits. March sees the cockpit for our 1/72nd Bf 110G-4 in the Brassin line, along with FuG 220/212 radar antennae. There are, of course, more sets in both resin and in photoetched brass. Close attention should be paid to the fabric USAAF Seat Belts in 1/48th, which are anticipated to be as popular as the Luftwaffe sets in the same scale, or the color sets for Zvezda's Bf 109F-4 or the MiG-21F from Trumpeter, both also in 1/48th.

From January 31, 2013, we will be at Nuremberg, in the same stalls as the past several years (7-B-75). We hope you can come by and see us!
